

The Pöttinger Real Estate Group acting for a good cause

Höhenkirchen, 7 October 2016: Giving people with a disability space for an independent life – this is the idea behind the development of a very special residential building in “Hirschwinkel” in Höhenkirchen-Siegersbrunn. Together with the Pöttinger Real Estate Group, which constructed the building shell, the charity “Zukunft trotz Handicap” (“A future despite disability”) is setting up a residential home for young people with congenital or acquired disabilities.

The development of “Hirschwinkel” will give Höhenkirchen-Siegersbrunn a completely new quarter. The Pöttinger Real Estate construction project represents a major step in community development in the 10,000-inhabitant municipality in the east of Munich. The new estate is the perfect location for the charity’s new residential home, as the building is not being constructed on an open, greenfield site, but in the midst of other people – social inclusion in practice. The aim is to give the young residents a self-determined life despite their disability. Responsibility for running the home will be transferred to an operator with experience of caring for the disabled when the first young people move in.

The Pöttinger Real Estate Group supports this great vision and made a large donation to the “Zukunft trotz Handicap” charity on the occasion of the topping-out ceremony. Philipp S. Pöttinger, Managing Director of the Pöttinger Real Estate Group, is impressed by the charity’s work: “In a world where everything must be ever faster and better, people with disability often get left behind. We must stand up for them and ensure that they are able to develop and participate in daily life like able-bodied people. The charity “Zukunft trotz Handicap” is doing outstanding work in this respect. As a family business, we also support them and take our social responsibility seriously.”

The first young people are due to move into the residential home in “Hirschwinkel” in the summer of 2017.
